POSITION: PROJECT MANAGER

Due to continued growth, Pagnotta Industries, Inc. has an exceptional opportunity available for a Project Manager to work out of our Edmonton head office.

This position will play a pivotal role in leading a team of construction professionals in the day to day management/execution of construction projects, ensuring all facets of the construction process are in accordance with scope, budget, schedule, and safety requirements.

This is an exceptional opportunity for a proven leader who holds a Technical diploma or Engineering degree in a related field and a minimum of 5 – 7 years' hands-on experience in commercial, institutional or hi-rise construction project management. The proven ability to lead project teams in successfully completing multi-million dollar commercial concrete projects while maintaining budgets and schedules will be essential to your success.

Additionally, you have:

- Expert knowledge of construction methodology, techniques, equipment, drawings and specifications, building materials, required standards applicable to discipline and project management processes;
- In-depth knowledge and understanding of project scheduling, including work breakdown structures, critical path analysis and utilizing software products to manage productivity;
- Expert knowledge of job costing and coding, committed costing and work in progress cost analysis and management;
- Full comprehension of, and the ability to interpret blueprints, contract specifications, construction legislation, contract law and quantity takeoffs;
- The capacity to represent the company and project team in a professional manner to clients, architects, engineers, related project staff and the community.
- The ideal candidate will have exceptional organizational, communication, project management and computer skills, along with strong leadership abilities.

You thrive on working closely with the management team and developing and executing process changes to create greater project management efficiencies. Additionally, our ideal candidate will be able to think on their feet, be proactive and take responsibility for leading, motivating, coaching and challenging our construction professionals. Knowledge of scheduling software is essential. Experience with Jonas Software is preferred and an understanding of AutoCad would be highly desirable.

If you are a dynamic and driven professional who takes pride in your work while driving success, this could be the role for you.

Pagnotta Industries, Inc. offers a competitive compensation package which includes a comprehensive benefits program.

Please remit your resume in confidence to the attention of the Human Resources Manager referencing PROJECT MANAGER. Please note, only those candidates selected for interview will be contacted.
